

News Literacy

📍 Merrill, WI

Learn the skills to be a discerning news consumer

T.B. Scott Free Library

106 1st Street, Merrill, WI 54452

June 20 | 10:30am-12:30pm

Registration Recommended

Sign up by calling T.B. Scott Free Library: 715-536-7191

In today's information saturated world, it is more important than ever to be able to critically evaluate the news we encounter, whether that be from an online news site, from a social media post, or from an online video. This class is designed for basic technology users who enjoy finding news posted on social media sites by friends or on the internet. You'll learn how to identify reliable sources of information, determine which news reports are credible, and understand what hidden agendas might be present in media you consume. You'll also learn the key concepts of news literacy and the skills you need to make informed decisions about the news you come across. Basic tech experience expected.

btussel.com/btu
877-227-0924
btuinfo@btussel.com